Dear Keld,

Further to your letter, ref. 08-3039-0019, of 26 May 2008, I am pleased to provide you herewith all flights available in the route charges system billed to Universal Weather. This list covers all flight periods starting from December 2001, corresponding to the earliest information available in the CRCO database.

With regards to International Group LLC, we have no records of this company in our system. Our research on the Internet showed that this company operates only one aircraft (N63MU) and that the flight planning services were provided by Universal Weather. Flights operated with this aircraft are therefore included in the attached list of flights billed to Universal Weather.

Finally, I wish to point out that Universal Weather is only a flight planning and flight support services provider that American aircraft operators usually use for the management of all flight related matters, including the payment of route charges (on their behalf). This company may therefore not be regarded as the actual operator of flights. This information may only be obtained from alternate sources, such as from the flight plans if appropriately specified or from airport sources.

I hope that this information will meet your requirements and I remain at your disposal should you have any further questions on this issue.

Kind regards,

Adriaan Heerbaart
Director CRCO
