- A HIGH risk, as he is likely to pose a threat to the US, its interests, and allies
- A MEDIUM threat from a detention perspective
- Of HIGH intelligence value

b. (S//NF) Summary of Changes: The following outlines changes to detainee's assessment since the last JTF-GTMO recommendation. (Changes in this assessment will be annotated by ➤ next to the footnote.)

- Added new alias for detainee, Abu Talha al-Yemini¹
- Added further information concerning detainee's capture
- Added information showing detainee's close relationship to UBL

4. (U) Detainee's Account of Events:

The following section is based, unless otherwise indicated, on detainee's own account. These statements are included without consideration of veracity, accuracy, or reliability.

a. (S//NF) Prior History: In 1993, detainee graduated from high school in Taiz and attended Taiz University for one and a half years. In 1994, detainee moved to Sadaa, YM and attended the Dar al-Hadith Institute in Dimaj, YM, which was founded by prominent radical Shaykh Muqbil al-Wadi. While at the Dimaj Institute, detainee met Abdul Quddus al-Qadi, who helped him travel to Bosnia for jihad.² In 1995, detainee left Yemen and flew from Sanaa to Frankfurt, Germany. After one month in Germany, detainee determined it was not possible to obtain an entry visa to Croatia, so he took a train to Austria, where he had success obtaining a visa. With his visa, detainee took a train to Croatia and arrived in Bosnia about February 1995. Detainee attended training with the Mujahid Battalion of the Bosnian

² Dimaj Institute Expansion INTSUM 01-JUN-2005, Analyst Note: US Defense attaché office (USDAO Sanaa) reporting from December 2001 indicated that the Dar al-Hadith Institute, aka (Dimaj Institute), variant (Dimaj Center), engages in legitimate religious study while facilitating the recruitment and training of extremist elements. The Dimaj Institute houses 3,000 to 4,000 students. Numerous JTF-GTMO detainees, including some identified as UBL bodyguards, attended the Dimaj Institute or had connections or associations to its founder (see 000029 Yemen Times 21-JUL-2000 for more info on Shaykh al-Wadi; see DAB Abu Bakr University Analysis (JDIMS References) for additional information on the Dimaj Institute and links to Salafist training and al-Qaida.)

Army for 40 days.³ Training consisted of both physical and weapons training. Weapons training included the AK-47 assault rifle and hand grenades.⁴

b. (S//NF) Recruitment and Travel: In approximately February 1996, detainee returned to Yemen. Detainee wished to join the Chechen jihad, but because of the difficulty in getting there, he traveled to Nairobi, Kenya (KE) in 1996. A week later, detainee returned to Yemen after being informed that Kenya was not safe. In 1997, detainee traveled to Bangladesh and remained there for a month before returning to Yemen. In December 1997, detainee traveled to Saudi Arabia (SA) for the umra (minor pilgrimage).⁵ In 1998, detainee traveled to Syria for a kidney operation and returned to Yemen approximately one month later. Around this time, detainee received a phone call from Abdul Razzaq Basalih, aka (Abu Salih), whom detainee knew from Bosnia in 1995.⁶ Abu Salih convinced detainee to help send people to Afghanistan from the Taiz area. Detainee provided travel assistance in the form of visas, passports, airline tickets, and money to those wanting to travel to Afghanistan to receive training. Detainee bribed officials and forged documents in order to obtain illegal visas and passports. Abu Salih and a man named Ibrahim al-Madani, aka (Anjasha), whom detainee also knew from Bosnia, gave detainee money to facilitate personnel travel to Afghanistan.⁷ On 18 August 2000, detainee and Abu Salih departed Yemen and traveled to Kandahar, AF, via Karachi and Quetta, PK.⁸

c. (S//NF) Training and Activities: Detainee attended a training camp where Radwan al-Jazairi taught him electronics.⁹ Following the October 2000 bombing of the USS COLE, much of the Arab population in Afghanistan was in chaos. Detainee decided to link up with UBL's entourage for a few months. In early 2001, detainee traveled to Karachi, where he met al-Qaida facilitator Abu Yasir al-Jazaieri, aka (Abu Bakr Muhammad Bulghiti), aka (Abu Hamza), and resumed his facilitation efforts on behalf of Yemeni militants attempting to travel to Afghanistan.¹⁰ In late spring and early summer of 2001, detainee assisted

In late summer 2001, detainee returned to Kandahar due to escalating Pakistani mistreatment of mujahideen, including frequent robbery and harassment. Detainee spent most of his time traveling between Kabul, Kandahar, Logar, and Tora Bora, AF. In late-2001, detainee left Tora Bora and met up with a Saudi named Abu al-Maali, who convinced detainee to travel to Pakistan to assist Arab mujahideen. Upon arriving in Karachi, detainee moved into the home of Abd al-Rahim Hussayn Muhammad al-Nashiri, aka (Mullah Bilal), ISN US9SA-010015DP (SA-10015). Detainee went by the alias Aziz and quickly became well-known. Detainee received and passed on over $500,000 US in the course of his facilitation activities. Detainee estimated that he assisted approximately 100 fighters depart Pakistan prior to his capture.¹¹

6. (S//NF) Evaluation of Detainee's Account: Detainee has provided a fairly consistent and truthful account of his activities and associates. However, detainee continues to withhold some information from US debriefers and, since transfer to JTF-GTMO, has proven mostly uncooperative. Detainee potentially possesses information relevant to threats against the US and its allies.

7. (U) Detainee Threat:

a. (S) Assessment: Detainee is assessed to be a HIGH risk, as he is likely to pose a threat to the US, its interests, and allies.

b. (S//NF) Reasons for Continued Detention: Detainee was a senior al-Qaida facilitator who personally recruited bodyguards for UBL and became UBL's confidant. Detainee swore bayat to UBL. Detainee had associations with multiple senior al-Qaida members and Islamic extremists including individuals involved in the 11 September 2001 attacks. Detainee was responsible for facilitating the movement of funds and personnel in support of al-Qaida's terrorist network. Detainee worked closely with other al-Qaida facilitators, trainers, and guesthouse managers. After the Taliban fell, detainee provided assistance to hundreds of foreign fighters seeking to flee from Afghanistan to Pakistan or to their home countries. Detainee traveled to Bosnia for jihad in the mid-1990s and spent one year fighting before returning to Yemen. Detainee was associated with several Yemenis involved in the October 2000 USS COLE bombing.

- (S//NF) Detainee was a senior al-Qaida facilitator who personally recruited bodyguards for UBL and became UBL's confidant. Detainee swore bayat to UBL.
 - (S//NF) In 1999 detainee began sending young Yemeni recruits to Afghanistan to be UBL bodyguards.¹⁴
 - (S//NF) After sending reputable individuals who went on to become very close to UBL, detainee always got back greetings and well-wishes from UBL via couriers. Finally, in August of 2000, while detainee was in Afghanistan, UBL came to meet him. UBL came with many bodyguards and detainee remembered them because, "I am the one that sent them to Afghanistan in the first place."¹⁵
 - (S//NF) After his initial meeting, detainee spent all the time he could with UBL and on occasion detainee hiked the mountain trails of Afghanistan with of one of the hijackers, and saw three others daily at UBL's media center near Kandahar.²⁵

- ◆ (S//NF) Detainee reported in early-2001, UBL and Abu Hafs al-Masri chose eight members of al-Qaida from the al-Ghamid group to carry out a special terrorist operation. In early February 2001, five of the eight members traveled to Karachi, where they stayed with Khalid Shaykh Muhammad, ISN US9KU-010024DP (KU-10024). In March 2001, detainee saw three of the hijackers (Mutaz al-Ghamidi, Julyabi al-Ghamidi, and al-Jarah al-Ghamidi) with UBL. In mid-April 2001, the three hijackers disappeared in Afghanistan, but later resurfaced at the guesthouse in Karachi with KU-10024. Detainee stated the three hijackers were given specific training on the use of the Internet and computers.²⁶
- S//NF) Detainee was a facilitator and financier for al-Qaida and its recruits.
 - (S//NF) Detainee provided support and funding to KU-10024.²⁷ Detainee stated YM-10013 and KU-10024 visited detainee's house in Karachi in January 2002 to discuss travel and finance issues associated with supporting militants who had fled Afghanistan after the Coalition bombing campaign started.²⁸
 - (S//NF) KU-10024 reported detainee was one of the primary facilitators in Pakistan. KU-10024 identified Muhammad Abd al-Rahman Sad al-Man al-Qatani, aka (Abu al-Maali) as another primary facilitator.²⁹
 - (C//REL TO USA, GCTF) According to Ayman Saeed Abdullah Batarfi, ISN US9YM-000627DP (YM-627), detainee was one of two main al-Qaida facilitators in Pakistan, the other being Omar al-Hadrami. Al-Hadrami was in charge of operations in Lahore, while detainee ran operations in Karachi. (Analyst Note: Al-Hadrami was in charge of facilitation operations in Lahore, PK. Al-Hadrami also had knowledge of the individuals suspected of being responsible for the 2001 anthrax attacks in the United States, and al-Hadrami provided information about the attacks to detainee.³⁰)
 - (S//NF) YM-627 reported Abu Maali was responsible for providing $170,000 US from al-Qaida leadership to detainee. Abu Maali operated as a collection point for funds that were sent to UBL.³¹
 - (S//NF) Detainee received money from Saudi Arabia and frequently wrote to two wealthy Saudis, Zakaria and Abd al-Samad, appealing for funds to assist fleeing mujahideen and their families. These men provided large sums of money on about 20 occasions between November 2001 and January 2002, totaling more than $1,000,000 US.³²

- (S//NF) Detainee separately estimated that he received and transferred $500,000 US in late 2001, including one payment from Saudi Arabia of $100,000 US. Detainee stated he sent some of the money to Abu al-Maali in Afghanistan via Afghan runners. After two shipments of cash, Abu al-Maali asked detainee to stop sending cash as it could not effectively be put to use in Afghanistan.³³
- (S//NF) Detainee facilitated supplies sent to him by Ahmad Ibrahim Abu Hasana, aka (Abu Muaz al Jiddawi), for al-Qaida members in Afghanistan. These supplies included money, food, and passports.³⁴ According to YM-10014, al-Jiddawi provided logistics support to detainee. Detainee also reportedly sent money to al-Jiddawi after the 11 September 2001 attacks for al-Jiddawi to forward on to an al-Qaida operative in Mogadishu, Somalia.³⁵ (Analyst Note: Al-Jiddawi facilitated the travel to Afghanistan of several JTF-GTMO detainees, and he was known as the primary al-Qaida facilitator to be contacted in Saudi Arabia to get to Afghanistan.³⁶)
 - (S//NF) Detainee stated he contacted Muhammad Sulayman Barre, ISN US9SO-000567DP (SO-567), in Karachi to transfer $20,000 US to Egyptian Abd al-Karim Ahmad Ali, an al-Qaida operative who lived in Somalia. The money may have been used for the 2002 attacks on Israeli targets in Mombasa, KE.³⁷
 - (S//NF) According to Yasin Muhammad Salih Mazeab Basardah, ISN US9YM-000252DP (YM-252), he first saw detainee in Quetta in 2001, along with Saudi facilitators Salem Sharif and Anas al-Mecci. Detainee controlled all transportation from Yemen to Afghanistan. When fighters wanted to go to Afghanistan, they gave detainee their passports, and he would use them to generate the necessary paperwork for their travel. He also supplied them with travel money.³⁸ YM-252 stated detainee also smuggled electronic equipment and money using couriers out of Saudi Arabia and the United Arab Emirates.³⁹ (Analyst Note: Anas al-Mecci supported al-Jiddawi's recruitment efforts in Saudi Arabia.)
- (S//NF) Detainee facilitated the travel to and from Afghanistan and Pakistan for numerous mujahideen fighters, including at least 18 JTF-GTMO detainees.⁴⁰ (S//NF) In
